

Distinctive creates custom plan for New Lenox home

■Egle family has new yard, driveway landscaping

When Pete and Bobbi Egle decided to fill in their old in-ground swimming pool, they knew they needed an expert to help them reinvent their backyard and overall landscaping plan. So they enlisted the aid of Distinctive Construction Services Inc., which was able to pool its remodeling and landscaping resources together to create an exciting new exterior look for the couple's New Lenox home.

As empty nesters residing in a two-story home built in the 1960s, the Egles recently came to the conclusion that their pool had outlived its usefulness. Now, with major repairs beckoning and waning interest in swimming in and maintaining the pool, Bobbi and Pete decided to fill in the big hole and lay sod over it. But once completed, that left a huge gap in their backyard which cried out for attention. So in its place, they imagined a new gazebo with walking paths leading from it to the home's front and rear entrances, as well as freshly planted foliage and tidier landscaping that would prevent their Rottweiler, Bella, from tracking dirt and mud back into the house.

"We began calling different companies last August, but soon learned that most firms could either do one or the other — build the gazebo as general contractors, or put in the landscaping," Pete said. "Eventually we ended up phoning Distinctive Remodelers after reading a newspaper article about one of their projects."

Distinctive Construction Services Inc. chairman Bryan Nooner personally visited the Egles' home and surprised the couple when he said his two divisions — Midwest Landscape Design and Distinctive Remodelers — could consolidate its services to more efficiently and economically complete all phases of the project.

The Egles told Nooner they yearned for a sizeable, maintenance-free gazebo with a screened-in porch and a ceiling fan/light that they could enjoy during the warmer months and that could serve as an attractive focal point and centerpiece in the rear of their property.
